Never before in the history of the Quad-Cities have we had as many favorable factors present for economic growth and progress as we have today.

The presence of these factors, however, does not guarantee this progress. The key to their use lies in the creation of a climate which will encourage expansion of our existing industries and which will attract new industries. Many problems with the progress of the control of the contro

And we have excellent local libraties and parks. The metropolitan area affords operas, theaters, sympyoper, and and restaurants, and many other facilities, good hotels and restaurants, and many other facilities for our benefit and enjoyment. Numerous other advantages and assets can be added to this list. The facts presented are not new to most of us, but have been called to your attention because we believe that most of us have accepted them as they have developed without realized them as they have developed without realized and the second of the second o

ON Casual Jackets Go To College

What distinguishes the green close the coat against chilly fall

Throwing a ball or ambling

freshman from the sophisticated senior? A wardrobe of easual jackets that are light, weather-proof and leather!

This fall soft suede, smooth and lightly grained leathers have taken over in campus casual fashions. Masculine, yet handsome and bright as the new slacks and sports shirts, leather coats and sports shirts of the wardrobe. They're also easy on the budget—which is important for a fellow living on an allowance.

Car coats of smooth, soil-resistant leather score top grade at college. A favorite on Eastern campuses is a three-quarter length coat with a yoke-like effect across the chest which concels the opening to two neatly set breast pockets—for cigarettes, matches, wallet and that all-important address book. Self-er coats is that they do not bunch up or wrinkle in the arms.

TERRIFIC IS THE WORD for this Lakeland knee-length, camel colored, Melton campus coat modeled by Dave West, a senior at S. I. U. Carbondale campus. It has a fur collar and is pile lined for winter comfort. Underneath Dave is wearing a Hunter Green blazer and continental pants. Another campus fashion from Schermer's Men & Boys Store.

PHILLIP CRUSE, a junior at the Granite City Senior High School, knows just what the well-dressed college students will take with them from the Surplus Store . . . a metal covered footlocker priced at $7.75 plus tax.

If you are wondering what to give that hard-to-please teen ager on the way back to school, we have some suggestions passed on by those who make it their business to know the likes and dislikes of our young people. The jewelers of the country, reports the Jewelry Council, have been taking careful note of the preference of teen agers for years, and have some ideas to help you.

For the young man, there are a number of different pieces of jewelry that build up his pride and wardrobe, and there is a fairly good chance that your young man is missing a few of them. He might like a set of matching cufflinks

A mythical "they" dictates what is being worn and woe betide the parent two ignores the dictates of this monster.

But what is a parent to do faced with a choice between what his own taste says is correct and what his own taste says is correct and what his son wants?

In most cases, the solution to this dilemma is to rely upon the salesmants advice. He does know what "they" are wearing this year. Whether it's trousers tapered from an already 'narrow 13' to 11½ or 12½", or pants cut to ride on the hips with a low-slung look.

ROBERT SCHARF is wearing wearing white corduroy trousers in the new extra trim, extra slim, Cobra model, made by H.I.S. as advertised in Playboy. It is priced a just $6.95 and is an exclusive in Granite City from Fleishman's Classic Shop.
